Media Information 2009

The largest gardening website in the UK

About the site

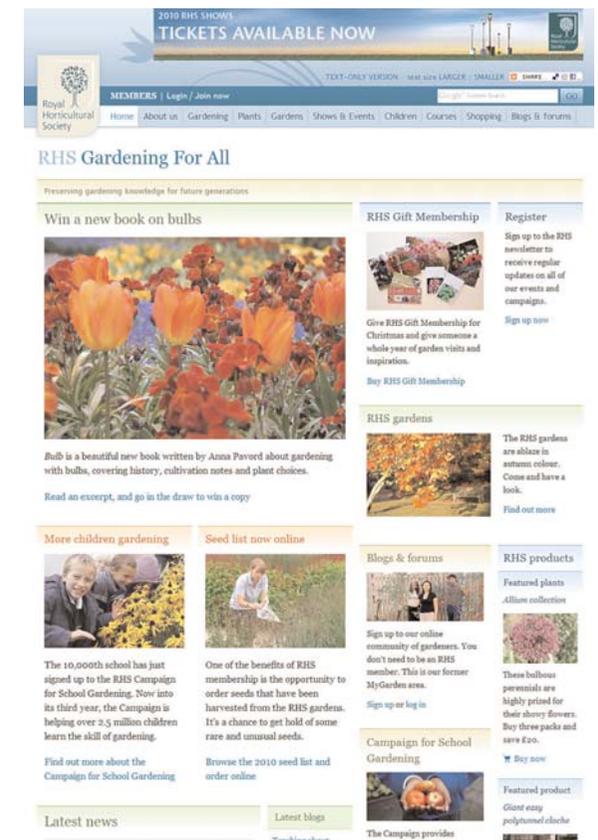

RHS Online keeps our 707,000* RHS members and gardening enthusiasts updated with information about RHS events, gardens, shows, education and publications; gives access to thousands of plant archives; offers advice on hundreds of gardening topics; provides opportunities for garden and gifts shopping; and interacts with users through the My Garden Forum.

The site is divided into 5 main content areas:

- What's On – giving users updated information on RHS events
- Plants – users can access a full archive of thousands of plants including a comprehensive Plant Finder facility
- Learning – for users looking to extend their gardening knowledge or build a career in horticulture
- Advice – more than 700 advice topics for both novice and keen gardeners compiled by our horticultural experts.
- My Garden – user-generated content with blogs, forums and photos.

RHS Shows

Dedicated sites are created for each of the main RHS flower shows held during the year (Chelsea, Hampton Court Palace and Tatton Park). The sites host show-related content in the run-up, during and after the events. The show sites can be specifically targeted with your marketing message to help you gain the biggest return in these peak times. This audience is active, often purchasing and looking for new ideas.

Influence of the Royal Horticultural Society

- The RHS is one of the world's leading horticultural organisations and the UK's leading gardening charity with 342,000 members.
- The Hampton Court Palace Flower Show is the world's biggest annual flower show, attracting over 160,000 visitors and 700 exhibitors.
- The RHS Chelsea Flower Show receives over 15hrs coverage on BBC TV and is one of the biggest events on the UK social calendar.
- RHS members are both knowledgeable and passionate, and are considered 'lifestyle leaders' among their peers.
- The RHS audience is as socially driven as it is about gardening. The lifestyles and aspirational status of our users mean they are more active across numerous sectors including travel, motoring, finance, wine and luxury goods.

By advertising with RHS Online, your company can:

- Reach the largest volumes of gardening enthusiasts in the UK
- Reach the highest % of AB consumers within the gardening and lifestyle vertical
- Align yourself with one of the UK's most prestigious and respected institutions
- Market your products or services to an extremely affluent and influential audience
- Target advertising to specific and specialist content via RHS premium channels
- Communicate with a 'buying audience' with very high disposable income
- Connect with an audience whose buying power is far more recession-proof than the UK's average consumer.

"As a small company in a competitive market, we are increasingly seeing the value of online advertising as part of our promotion mix. Our recent intensive campaign on the RHS website has been our most successful online activity so far and almost doubled our enquiries in June 2009."
