Surplus Seed for Exchange 2012

General Information

Established in 1804, the Royal Horticultural Society is now the UK's leading gardening charity dedicated to advancing horticulture and promoting good gardening.

Our goal is to help people share a passion for plants, to encourage excellence in horticulture and inspire all those with an interest in gardening.

Most of the seed offered is collected in RHS gardens. Other seed is donated and is offered under the name provided by the donor. In many cases only limited quantities of seed are available. However, it is felt that even small quantities should be distributed if at all possible.

Seed is generally collected from open-pollinated plants, therefore seed may not come true.

Please note that seed can only be sent to addresses in the UK, EU, Croatia, Iceland, Norway and Switzerland.

Applications received after 29th February 2012 may not be fulfilled.

In accordance with the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD), the Royal Horticultural Society supplies seed from its garden collections on the conditions that:

- The plant material is used for the common good in areas of research, education, conservation and the development of horticultural institutions or gardens.
- If the recipient seeks to commercialise the genetic material, its products or resources derived from it, then written permission must be sought from the Royal Horticultural Society. Such commercialisation will be subject to the conditions of a separate agreement.
- The genetic material, its products or resources derived from it are not passed on to a third party for commercialisation without written permission from the Royal Horticultural Society.
- It is a condition of supply that any publications resulting from the use of the plant material should acknowledge the Royal Horticultural Society as supplier. A copy of any publication, report or data gained from the material must be logged with the Royal Horticultural Society Lindley Library.
