REGISTRAR'S NOTES

Caularthron* Raf. replaces Diacrium Lindl.

The two species used as grex parents, formerly known as Diacrium bicornutum and Diacm. bilamellatum have been replaced by their priority names under Caularthron, namely Cau. bicornutum and Cau. bilamellatum. As a result the hybrid genus Diacattleya [Diac.] has been replaced by Caulocattleya [Clty.], and all grexes previously registered under Diacattleya Colman (1908) have been transferred to Caulocattleya Dress (1975). There are many other hybrid genera of which Diacrium is a component, which will need to be changed. However, this has been postponed until a decision has been made on the limits of other genera in the Laeliinae.

A nothogeneric system for Paraphalaenopsis [Pps.] hybrids.

With the separation of Paraphalaenopsis from Phalaenopsis and its acceptance in to orchid grex registration there comes a need to establish a number of new genera to accommodate these grexes. Why is there a need for new hybrid generic names? Why can one not continue to use the older names?, one may ask, as name changes are generally unpopular albeit necessary. In answer one must consider the nature of a hybrid generic designation. According to the Codes that regulate botanical nomenclature the 'name' of a hybrid genus is not strictly a name in the way that a genus, species or cultivar epithet is a name. These entities are based on a description linked to a specimen or illustration that serves as a type or standard. However, hybrid generic designations and, for that matter grex epithets, are viewed as condensed formulae which represent the parentage. As with any formula a change in a component alters the finished product. So too with hybrids a change in one parent alters the result - change the formula: change the name - is the maxim operating here. Therefore changing one of the ingredients from Phalaenopsis to Paraphalaenopsis means that a new formula is required which in practice this means a new hybrid generic name. Just a chef who substitutes cherries for apples is expected to change the name of the pie. At times well meaning attempts have been made to change the components of hybrid genera without changing the hybrid generic name, however this is not permitted under the code. One such example included below is Moirara which was originally published with Phalaenopsis as a component. The fact that the first grex registered in the this genus was bred using a Phalaenopsis parent that has since been transferred to Paraphalaenopsis can not be used as an argument to change the components of this hybrid genus, they remain as originally published. Just as the parental species was transferred to a new genus so the progeny must be placed in a new appropriate genus, hence the list below. It should be noted that this does not mean that the hybrid genera formerly used to hold Paraphalaenopsis grexes are now obsolete, they continue to be valid for grexes that actually meet the identifying formula, that means having a genuine Phalaenopsis in their parentage as opposed to a Paraphalaenopsis.

In the list below names in bold are valid according to the ICBN, however they may not necessarily be in use for registration of Paraphalaenopsis grexes as some of the component genera may not be accepted currently for registration. Names in italics when beginning an entry are invalid.

Ascoparanthera [Apn.] J.M.H.Shaw in Orch. Rev. Suppl. 110(1248): 108 (Nov. 2002) = Ascoglossum x Paraphalaenopsis x Renanthera. This nothogenus holds Pps. grexes formerly placed under Dresslerara [Dres.]

Ascorhynopsis [Arp.] J.M.H.Shaw in Orch. Rev. Suppl. 110(1248): 108 (Nov. 2002) = Ascocentrum x Paraphalaenopsis x Rhynchostylis. This nothogenus holds Pps. grexes formerly placed under Chinheongara [Chi.]

Benthamara [Ben.] Garay & H.R.Sweet in Bot. Mus. Leaf. Harv. Univ. 21: 152 (1966) = Arachnis x Euanthe x Paraphalaenopsis. Non Benthamara Moir & Greatwood (1974).

Garayara [Ga.] G.W.Dillon in Am. Orch. Soc. Bull. 38: 676 (1969) = Arachnis x Paraphalaenopsis x Vandopsis. This nothogenus holds Pps. grexes formerly placed under Laycockara [Lay.]
