Owen Simpson, managing director of Henschman, commented: "The Henschman story began 30 years ago, we've grown from a small family business to leading ladder specialists, and we're incredibly proud to help keep both professional gardeners and home gardeners safe while working at height.

"The RHS Chelsea Flower Show holds a special place in our hearts and being able to mark 30 years at this year's event truly is a full-circle moment. We hope guests will join us on the stand to join our celebrations!"

Boasting the only EN131-certified tripod ladders on the market, Henschman will also provide several of the event's Main Avenue show gardens with its Fully Adjustable PRO Tripod Ladders, ensuring safety is paramount throughout the construction process while the impressive show site is brought to life.
