New cultivars in Cattleya Sylvie Baby grex

This grex is derived from Cattleya Ruth Gee gx x Cattleya Mary Lynn McKenzie gx. Amy Howard of Sylvie's Orchids, Florida, USA, has selected the following three cultivars to name and mericlone.

'Amys Choice' Flower rounder, fuller shape than Ruth Gee gx or Mary Lynn McKenzie gx, with a fuller, rounder lip than grex parents; flowers 5 inches (12.7cm) wide, round shape with heavy petal overlap; tepals white with yellow in throat; petal and lip margins ruffled.

'Bad Bad Wolf' Flower with larger, heavier substance than Ruth Gee gx; flower more oval in shape and lip with longer throat tube than Mary Lynn McKenzie gx; flower 6.5 inches (16.5cm) wide; petal margins ruffled; lip margin heavily ruffled.

'Winter in SRQ' Flower less round than Ruth Gee gx, flower substance lighter than Mary Lynn McKenzie gx; flower more oblong than either parent; flower 4.5 inches (11.5cm).

New Cypripedium cultivar names

The following labels are being used to market hardy Cypripedium seedlings by Anthura Nursery of Holland under the brand name of Garden Orchids. In order to provide valid names at cultivar rank they are here formally established. I am grateful to Phillip Cribb for suggesting likely identities for these plants.

'Kentucky' Sepals and petals light brownish maroon overlaid on greenish yellow; petals twisted; pouch light yellow; staminodal shield rick yellow. Probable identity: Cypripedium kentuckiense.

'Kentucky Maxi' Sepals very pale green on white with red veins; petals drooping, twisted, very pale green to white with broken red veins and long whitish hairs; pouch white with a hint of pink, fine red dots on rim. Probable identity: Cypripedium Gabriela gx, Cyp. fasciolatum x kentuckiense.

'Kentucky Pink' Dorsal sepals corrugated, strongly veined and reticulated in red on a paler pink-greenish background; synsepal much paler, more green with less pronounced veining; petals drooping downwards, margins wavy, pale green with strong red reticulate veining; pouch pale pink or white with darker pink veins and mottled shading, pink dots around rim and inside. Probable identity: Cypripedium Philipp gx, Cyp. kentuckiense x macranthos.

'Kentucky Pink Blush' Dorsal sepal broad, arching white with strong dark pink reticulate veining; petals downswept, white with strong dark pink veins and reticulation, margins undulate; pouch off-white marbled light pink with dark pink mottling and reticulation on upper parts and around rim, very dark red-maroon inside pouch rim. Probable identity: Cypripedium Lucy Pinkepank gx, Cyp. kentuckiense x tibeticum.

'Multiflower White' Sepals and petals greenish, overlaid with light brown-maroon darker towards edges; petals twisted; pouch white with some light pink marking inside; staminodal shield rich yellow with a few small red blotches. Probable identity: Cypripedium Sebastian gx, Cyp. parviflorum x montanum.

'Parville' Sepals and petals dark maroon becoming light green towards the base; petals twisted; pouch yellow with a few red blotches inside towards rim; staminodal shield yellow with red blotches. Probable identity: Cypripedium parviflorum.

'Pueblo' Sepals and petals light brown with twisted petals; pouch rich yellow with a few red dots on interior. Probable identity: Cypripedium parviflorum var. pubescens.

'Regina' Sepals and petals white; pouch mostly white but with pink and darker pink vertical banding on pouch exterior. Probable identity: Cypripedium reginae f. reginae.

'Regina White' Flower entirely white. Probable identity: Cypripedium reginae f. album.

Nomenclatural note on Pescatoria lalindei

The name Pescatoria lalindei (Linden) Dressler, Lankesteriana 5: 95 (2005), was based on Batemannia lalindei Linden, Cat. Gén. 90 (1873). In this basionym reference the figure 90 has generally been regarded as a page number, however it is the catalogue or volume number. Taxonomic Literature 2 notes this was volume 90 consisting of 42 pages. After a search, Rafael Govaerts located a copy in the Library at Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew. He found the entry for Batemannia lalindei appears on page 11, but consists only of the name without description. Consequently, the combination as originally proposed by Dressler (2005) is invalid on two accounts: the basionym is a nomen nudum, and the basionym citation is incorrect. Interestingly, the entry in Patricia Harding, Huntleyas and related orchids p.206 (2008), lists the name as: Pescatorea lalindei (Rchb.f.) Dressler, Lankesteriana 5(2): 95 (2005). Basionym: Bollea lalindei Rehb.f., Gard. Chron. 2: 33 (1874). In effect, this is a new combination, since the name rests up on a different basionym, but it serves to validate the name, hence the correct citation for this species name is: Pescatoria lalindei (Rchb.f.) Dressler ex P.A.Harding, Huntleyas: 206 (2008). The databases at RHS, IPNI and Kew World Checklist have now all been updated to reflect this.
