<sup>1</sup> Cym. nishiuchianum Makino ined. is a putative natural hybrid of Cym. kanran x Cym. goeringii, which is grown in Japan and known by the vernacular name Shunkanran, meaning Spring-Cold Orchid. Two colonies were discovered in Tosa province by Hidetaro Nishiuchi and the provisional name, commemorating the discoverer, was coined by Dr. T. Makino in 1937. As this unpublished Latin binomial is widely used in Japanese literature and no confusion is likely to result from its use, it has been provisionally accepted to enable this registration to proceed. Illustration: Maekawa, F. (1971) Native orchids of Japan. p. 479, pl.168.

<sup>2</sup> Odontoglossum Solitaire. During routine curation Hannah Griffiths discovered that this grex had been omitted from the data base. Further checking revealed that it does not appear in SLOH either. It was accepted by the registrar on 4th April 1957, and is included in the current list.

*New intergeneric hybrid genus with abbreviation for the following combination. The botanical authority follows each component genus.

Cochlesepalum R.Oba & J.M.H.Shaw nothogen. nov. (Cos.) = Cochleanthes Raf. x Zygosepalum Rchb.f. Breeding group
Waibengara W.B.How & J.M.H.Shaw nothogen. nov. (Wai.) = Aërides Lour. x Ascocentrum Schltr. ex J J Sm. x
Phalaenopsis Blume x Rhynchostylis Blume x Vanda Jones ex Br. Breeding group 9. Named for Mr. How Wai Beng of Singapore.

∅Natural genera new to registration.

Ludisia accepted in preference to Haemaria hence Ludochilus in preference to Anoectomaria. The nothogenus Ludochilus Garay & Sweet (1966) [= Anoectochilus Blume x Ludisia A. Richard] has been accepted in preference to Anoectomaria (1887) based on Anoectochilus x Haemaria Lindl., [Haemaria Lindl., the authorship of which is wrongly attributed to Linnaeus in Willi:

(1973) Dict. Fl. Pl. & Ferns., is a synonym of Ludisia.] Although Anoectomaria is listed in the Handbook as a genus used for registration purposes, there has only been one grex registration under this genus back in 1865. Since the registrant used modern nomenclature there seems little point in perpetuating invalid nomenclature and accordingly Ludochilus was felt to be more appropriate choice.

¶ Species appearing for the first time as parents in registration: Anoectochilus formosanus Hayata; Bulbophyllum emiliorum Ames & Quisumb.; Bulbophyllum pectenvenensis (Gagepain) Seidenf. [as Bulb. flaviflorum (Liu & Su) Seidenf., syn. Cirrhopetalum flaviflorum Liu & Su.]; Dendrobium tobaense J.J. Wood & J.B. Comber; Jumellea gracilipes Schltr.; Laelia alao Brieger & Bicalho; Masdevallia sprucei Rchb.f.; Oncidium enderianum Sander ex Masters.

CORRECTIONS

Barkeria Marsha Mela and Marsh Melody. In Sander's List of Orchid Hybrids (SLOH) addendum 1991 - 1995, p. 28, Bark. melanocaulon is listed as a parent of these grexes. Please correct this to read Bark. whartonia.

Cattlassia Premier. In the List of New Orchid Hybrids with the Orchid Review, July- August 2001, p. 4, 14, this hybrid is listed as Brassica caudata x Cattleya intermedia and has occasioned much comment. In a letter to the Registrar dated 17th Sept. 2001, M. Lecoufle stated that there has been a mistake in the registration details of this plant and that Brassia is not thought to be involved in its parentage.

Epilaeliocattleya Niña Caribe. Due to an electronic corruption a wrong character has appeared in the published version of this name in the List of New Orchid Hybrids with the Orchid Review July- August, 2001 p. 7.

Odontioda Warrnambool. In SLOH addendum 1981-1985, p. 415, 427, 432 this grex name is misspelled as Warrnambool.

Odontocidium Commander Oliver. In the List of New Orchid Hybrids with the Orchid Review, Sept.- Oct. 2001, this grex name is misspelled Commander Oliver.

Odontocidium Memoria Beatrix Orssick. In SLOH addendum 1991-1995, p. 533, 553 the pollen parent of this grex is listed as Onc. gravesianum. Please change this to read Onc. enderianum.

Odontoglossum Beau Masque. In SLOH addendum 1986-1990, p. 404, 405 this grex name is erroneously spelt Beau Masque.

Oncidium Growers Choice. In the New Orchid Hybrids List published with the Orchid Review, May-June 2000 p. 8, the pollen parent of this grex is listed as Onc. gravesianum. Please change this to read Onc. enderianum.

Oncidium Nanboh Waltz. In the New Orchid Hybrids List published with the Orchid Review, September-October 2000 p. 8, this grex name is spelled Nanboh Waltz. [Registrant requested change in spelling of name as originally registered.]

Paphiopedilum Kee Chin Lim. In the New Orchid Hybrids List published with the Orchid Review, September-October 2000 p. 9, this grex name is misspelled Kee Chin Lili.

Sophrolaeliocattleya Allan's Jewel. In the New Orchid Hybrids List with the Orchid Review, July - August 2001 p. 13, the pollen parent of this grex is misspelled. Please correct to read, Lc. Mishima Star.

REGISTRAR'S NOTES

This month there have been several cases of grex names which have turned out to be illegitimate homonyms of species and consequently need to be replaced. Usually this has occurred because the species involved were interpreted erroneously as natural hybrids and subsequently their names have been misapplied to the grexes of the same putative parentage. These changes are based on the principal that a grex name is of species equivalent rank (cf. ICBN Art. H.5.1). And that for purposes of homonymy and synonymy the multiplication sign and the prefix “notho-” (in other words hybrid status) are disregarded (ICBN Art. H.3.3.).

Anguloa dubia* Rchb.f. and Ang. Dubia.

As explained by Oakeley (Orchid Digest special publication: Annotated checklist of Anguloa, 1999), the name Ang. dubia properly applies to a natural species, known from the wilds of Colombia. Unfortunately the name has been misapplied to the putative hybrids Ang. clowesi x Ang. uniflora and Ang. clowesii x Ang. virginalis, which has resulted in the misapplication of the derived grex name Ang. Dubia to the artificial hybrid Ang. clowesii x Ang. eburnea, due in part to confusion between Ang. eburnea, Ang. uniflora and Ang. virginalis. This requires that the grex name Ang. Dubia be replaced as it is an illegitimate homonym of Ang. dubia. Furthermore it is also a misapplied and confused name. Consequently, the data base has been changed as follows:

Ang. Dubia is now regarded as a synonym of Ang. Irene.

Ang. Irene (= Ang. uniflora x Ang. clowesii) is accepted as the replacement name for Ang. Dubia.

Ang. Isabelle (= Ang. clowesii x Ang. virginalis) has already been registered.

Ang. Victoire (= Ang. clowesii x Ang. eburnea) has already been registered.

Anguloa Camilla* and Ang. Elisabeth Eyles.

Oakeley (Orchid Digest special publication: Annotated checklist of Anguloa, 1999), gives the grex name Ang. Camilla for the cross Ang. hohlenlohii x Ang. virginalis. However, this cross is registered as Ang. Elisabeth Eyles, which means that Ang. Camilla is a superfluous synonym of Ang. Elisabeth Eyles.

Repetition of grex names in Bulbophyllum, Cirrhopetalum and Cirrhophyllum. In view of the widespread acceptance of the reduction of Cirrhopetalum Lindl. to a section within Bulbophyllum Thou. along with their increased popularity, repetition of grex names within the breeding group Bulbophyllum, Cirrhopetalum and Cirrhophyllum will be avoided. Placement of grexes in either Bulbophyllum or Cirrhophyllum is currently arbitrary depending up on the choice of the registrant.

Odontoglossum cristatellum* Rchb.f. and *Odm. Crystatellum

Routine investigation prompted by recent registrations involving Odontoglossum cristatellum as a grex parent revealed that this name has been used severally for a wild species, a putative natural hybrid - Odm. cristatum x Odm. polyxanthum (a synonym of Odm. kegeljanii) - and consequently as the grex name Cristatellum for artificial hybrids between Odm. cristatum and Odm. kegeljanii (Odm. polyxanthum). Putative natural hybrids between Odm. kegeljanii and Odm. cristatellum apparently occur where these grow together, (illustration: Bockemühl p. 328) and Rolfe (Orchid Review 3: 328) may have seen some of these amongst imported plants for which he used the name Odm. x cristato-kegeljani, assuming the parents to be Odm. cristatum and Odm. kegeljanii. Initially, Reichenbach (Gardener's Chronicle 1868, p.1014) described the first few plants of Odm. cristatellum as varieties (colour forms) of Odm. cristatum, viz., var. canari, var. dayanum, var. argus. Later he concluded that Odm. cristatellum was a hybrid involving Odm. cristatum (Gard. Chron. 2: 716, 1878). So what is Odm. cristatellum? In his original description Reichenbach refers to plants from a Mr. W. Bull of Chelsea, England. In the Vienna herbarium there is a specimen and drawing on the same sheet labelled Bull 605, to which a TYPUS label has been added at some point. Brockemühl refers to this specimen as the type (as Sheet 41603) in her monograph p. 54 and again under Typus on p. 55. However below this in the list of specimens examined, the first entry in bold indicating the holotype is not Bull 605 (=Sheet 41603) but Hübsch 8710 from Loja, San Lucas. Thus two different specimens which are widely separated both in geographical origin and morphological characters are cited as the type of Odm. cristatellum. To add to this difficulty six lines further down the list of specimens is the Vienna sheet of Harweg 844 from near Paccha in southern Ecuador. This specimen is an isotype of Odm. cristatum and appears along with the holotype from the Lindley herbarium at Kew on p.59, demonstrating the difficulty of separating the two species. Bockemühl cites two different collections as the type of Odm. cristatellum and includes the type of Odm. cristatum with them, yet attempts to achieve a separation between these entities at species level by using characters from an atypical northern collection of Odm. cristatellum (Hübsch 8710) to compare with the type of Odm. cristatum.

Stig Dalström (pers. com.) has observed the typical form of Odm. cristatum at the locus classicus. He relates that in the topotypes the column is rather slender and has triangular hook-like wings, resembling a claw. Whereas Brockemühl does not mention this but refers to more northerly collection as the typical form that has a stout, longer column with bifurcate column wings and is a larger plant overall. These two extremes are linked by a cline of intergrading specimens. Odm. cristatellum typically has a stout column which is shorter than the northerly form of Odm. cristatum and has more rectangular wings., but is once again linked to the topotypes of Odm. cristatum by an intergrading cline. Dalström's conclusion is that Odm. cristatellum is no more than a subspecies of Odm. cristatum occurring at a slightly higher altitude.

Provisional key to Odontoglossum species similar to Odm. cristatum/cristatellum.

*Purple pigmentation on pseudobulbs only develops on plants grown in strong light.

Odm. cristatum* complex (includes Odm. cristatellum; Odm. cristatum)

Pseudobulbs without purple spots. Flowers strongly malodorous. Keels on lip large, radiating, extending over the greater part of the lamina, often lacerated, with red, brown or purple longitudinal stripes. Column wings well developed, rectangular, triangular or lacerate. Typical O. cristatum differs from typical O. cristatellum in morphology, habit and ecology, but they merge in some areas and become very difficult to separate.

Odm. epidendroides* complex (includes Odm. epidendroides; Odm. kegeljanii; Odm. lacerum; Odm. spectatissimum)

Pseudobulbs without purple spots. Flowers with a delicate, sweet odour or odourless. Keels on lip usually colourless. Column wings large, rounded - rectangular.

Odm. cruentum* complex (Odm. hrubyanum; Odm. juninense; Odm. portmanii)

Pseudobulbs with pronounced purple mottling. Flowers odourless. Keels colourless or rarely pigmented near the base. Column wings poorly developed, barely visible.

Odm. armatum* complex (Odm. denticulatum; Odm. portmanii subsp. cohersiae; Odm. praeinitens)

Pseudobulbs with purple mottling. Keels on lip large, usually with purple stripes. Column wings usually somewhat developed, triangular. The typical form has large callus keels like Odm. cristatum, sometimes with purple stripes and small triangular wings. A race from northern Ecuador has very small keels without coloration and no column wings at all. In Colombia it is replaced by Odm. praeinitens.

For the time being registrations will be accepted using the names proposed by Brockmühl.

Oncidium Enderanum*, Onc. 'x enderanum', Onc. enderianum and *Onc. gravesianum

For some time there has been much confusion generally as to the identity of Onc. enderianum Sander ex Masters, usually cited as Onc. enderianum hort. Field work in Brazil by Fowlie and others has made it clear that Onc. enderianum is distinct from Onc. gravesianum Rolfe. The differences between the two species are discussed and illustrated by Fowlie (1979) and others provide useful comments (see references below). Compounding the problem is the mistaken idea that Onc. enderianum represents a natural hybrid between Onc. crispum and Onc. curtum, a conjecture first expressed in Gardener's Chronicle Third series, 12: 75 (1892). This claim has proved to be without foundation. Probably as a result of this, the artificial hybrid Onc. crispum x Onc. curtum was registered as a grex in 1956 as Onc. Enderanum, which as one can see involves an orthographic error. This spelling will be retained as it aids in distinguishing the grex name from its specific (and apparently unrelated) homonym. To further complicate matters the registration database lists as a putative natural hybrid of the same parentage Onc. 'x enderanum', a name which does not appear to have been published, intending a plant which apparently does not exist. To clarify matters the registrar will adopt the following: The two species, Onc. enderianum and Onc. gravesianum, will now be recognised as distinct for Orchid hybrid registration. The name Onc. Enderanum will apply to the unrelated artificial hybrid Onc. crispum x Onc. curtum. The name Onc. 'x enderanum' will be deleted from the record.
